

INDIAN WELL — Water supply was important in selecting Mission locations. Today's Friars' Shrine is the first water well, dug in 1780, used by Missionaries and Padres.

A circular postmark from San Francisco, California. The text "SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF." is curved along the top inner edge. The date "JAN 3" is in the center, with "5-PM" below it. The year "1954" is at the bottom. There are some handwritten marks and a blue ink scribble over the "5-PM" and "1954".
